Subject: [TIGS] CUMMINGS, BULGER, West Troy, 1850 - 1910

Categories: GENEALOGY TIGS

My great grandfather is Terrence CUMMINGS, born 1824 in No. Ire., s/o Mark and Nancy CUMMINGS. Imm. to U.S. c.1838 and settled in West Troy where he owned and operated a grocery and livery for many years. Active in politics in West Troy and later in Watervliet. He died in 1910.

Terrence married Ellen BULGER, c. 1858. She was born in Ireland c. 1833, d/o Edward and Ellen BULGER. Imm.

c. 1836. Terrence and Ellen had five children. Ellen died 1904.

I have much info on the family of Terrence and Ellen and their descendants which I am willing to share but seek info on the parents and ancestors of Ellen BULGER.

Any help would be appreciated.

My George EARLS and Mary Ann MCDONOUGH were both born in Ireland ca 1825. I suspect that they were from the west Galway / Clare area.

By 1848 they were married and settled in West Troy [now Watervliet] in St. Patrick's parish.

Their daughter Eliza Jane married Edward COATES, and this couple settled in Brooklyn.

We know that there were visits to Eliza's family in Watervliet and Cohoes until the early 1920s. But, we haven't been able to reconstruct after the 1880 census. Eliza's 2 sisters, Mary Margaret and Catherine, no doubt married ... and we have no idea of the married names.

Any ideas of what to investigate next would be most welcome.

FYI, the cemeteries don't have records of the parents' burials. [Mother between 1870-75, and father George after 1885.]

Most persons with the surname of Earls / Earles in the greater Troy / Albany area were from England. This Earls line is most definitely from Ireland.

Thanks very much.
Pat

I have ancestors that I know are buried in St Patricks in Watervliet, and have corner markers with their name there, but they are not recorded in their card file at St Agnes. I was told that records were burnt in a fire at a storage building at the cemetery and when the diocese took over what records they did have at St Pats they walked the cemetery and made up cards for each stone. So just because they are not in the records doesn't mean they are not there.

FYI, the cemeteries don't have records of the parents' burials. [Mother between 1870-75, and father George after 1885.]

Thanks very much.

Thanks very much for the reply. A question... based on your note...

Where are those headstone cards that were made up as a result of the Diocese's walk thru of old St Pat's cemetery in Watervliet ... if they are not at St Agnes cemetery?

I visited the combined St Agnes / St Pat's office in October, 1998 without any success. At that time I heard the fire story. But, no one mentioned that there was a list of headstone cards.

Thanks again.

That's what didn't make sense to me. My gGrandfather James H Radigan has corner markers with his full name on them, but they were not included in the St Pats card file that IS AT St Agnes. I guess they didn't look down in that spot when walking the cemetery, who knows. I usually have to clear grass away each year. There is also an "old range" section of the cemetery or something like that, and they did not at first find James' father Patrick Radigan, (who has corner markers in another spot saying ONLY Radigan) in the file, but when they looked in the older section's files they found his complete information with date of death and section, year purchased, etc. It was 1888. So SOME old records survived somehow. I was confused. I don't really know what records survived or exactly how they organize them. But they have been friendly and accommodating and patient with all of my questions.

When my GGgrandfather Robert McAlonie died in 1879 and his wife 3 days later, The Rev. William F Sheehan who was a long time pastor at St Patrick's (he opened St Coleman's home) became the legal guardian of their 4 children all baptized at St. Pats. But there are no records of the parents being buried there, or at St Agnes where he owned a plot. It's frustrating.

Funny enough, in 1900 my GGgrandfather Thomas Mahoney of Watervliet, whose family was married and buried at St Patricks, was listed as occupation: cemetery "sup't" in the census. I hope it wasn't him who was in charge of the old records.

Thanks very much for the explanation re those cards.

Now, I am frustrated! Heaven only knows when I'll be able to get back to the office at St Agnes to see if my George and Mary Ann Earls appear on one of those cards. Do you think that if I write to St Agnes that the person who opens the letter will have a clue as to what I'm asking about?

BTW, what do you mean by a 'corner marker'? That's a cemetery term unfamiliar to me. I know headstone, gravestone, and mausoleum.

When I was able to visit the area back in 1998 I did walk thru St Pat's. Enjoyed reading the stones. Wouldn't it be grand if the content of those cards could be published?
