Categories: GENEALOGY TIGS

Currently we have about 23 volunteers from all across the county and Canada working on the marriage index project. If you would like to be a part of this project, we can always use more help.

For those new to the TIGS list, the Troy Irish Genealogy Society is working on a major new project of automating the Rensselaer County Marriage Index. This 10 Volume Marriage Index of Rensselaer County marriages from 1908 to 1935 has over 60,000 names.

Work is now being done on Volume I which has 5,000 marriages which translates into 10,000 names. The original pages are scanned by TIGS members and the resulting pdf files are then sent to the volunteers working on the project as an attachment to a email along with an Excel spreadsheet for data entry.

The first scanning of the source documents covered Brides and Grooms records with the letters A., B. and C. The data for these records is now 99.9% finished and proof read. This part of the index had 1,848 names which is almost 20% of the total file of 10,000 names.

A second scanning session was held last Friday and all the Brides and Grooms records for the letters D. through K. were finished. We now have quite a few files that can be sent to the current volunteers plus any new helpers.

So, if you would like to be part of this project, please write me off list at: seamus@nycap.rr.com and send me your name, address and telephone number. I will then email you the Excel spreadsheet and a pdf file of names to be data entered.

Regards,

Bill McGrath

Hi Listers,

I like to welcome Robert Luce to the TIGS Mailing List. Below you will find information on his family research. If you have any information for him, you can email him directly at rlyuce@pacbell.net

Lizette
List Administrator

I would like to join the Troy Irish Genealogical Society. My GG Grandfather was Patrick Hussey who, as a child, emigrated from Galway to Troy/Waterford about 1850.

Hello! Thank you for the kind welcome.

As Lizette said, I am researching the HUSSEY surname in the Troy/Waterford area.

Patrick Hussey, born in Galway Ireland came to the states in 1852 with his mother, Margaret (Loftus), brother John, and sister Bridget. They joined their father, Peter, who had arrived two years earlier, and their grandfather John who had come before that. Patrick joined the NY 22nd Volunteer Infantry when he was only 16, served for the duration of the Unit, and was wounded in the Battle of the 2nd Bull Run. He was taken into the home of a US Senator to recuperate. The wound to his hand left him disabled. He applied and received a Military Pension which was on his death transferred to his wife. in 1869 he married Emily Van Norden. Patrick was a machinist foreman at the Watervliet Iron Works, he fell from a scaffold and died in hours. Patrick and Emily are buried in the Waterford Rural Cemetery, NY.

Ruth's Recipe for Codfish Cakes is just right.

My Salt Cod from the Vermont Country Store arrived a few weeks back but we had to find a weekend when we could hydrate the Cod on Saturday and make and cook the cakes for Sunday supper.

Well, I want you to know that I made them up and the eating of them took me back 50 years or so to the last time my grandmother served them up. They tasted just the same. I halved the recipe and we still ended up with 6 cakes - enough for two meals. We even managed to find B&M Baked Beans and Brown Bread at Krogers here in Ohio so the repast was complete!

Thanks again to Ruth for the recipe, which I include again with this post in case you missed it when originally posted back in September.

Brad Miter

Ruth's recipe:

Cod Fish Cakes Recipe

Cod fish cakes are a great duo with beans. Also, a little brown bread would be yummy.

1 lb. of salt cod

4 large potatoes peeled and cut in quarters

3 eggs

1/3 cup of parsley finely chopped

1 tbsp. of onion finely chopped

1/2 tsp. black pepper

Soak cod fish overnight. The next day pour off old water and add new enough to cover the fish. Bring fish to a boil (and cook 10 minutes). This reduces the amount of salt in the fish. If after the water boils the fish is still salty change the water and boil again.

Meanwhile cook the potatoes until tender. Mash the cod and the potatoes together. Add the eggs, parsley, onion, and pepper mix this well.

Shape into balls and flatten out to the shape of a patty. Fry them in oil until golden brown all over. Drain on paper towels.

P.S. If the mix is too moist use flour to dry it up but too much you want them a little moist. If the mix is too dry use another egg to add moisture.

Categories: GENEALOGY TIGS

Mary from Yonkers posted a message to the Hudson River Valley list where she made some complimentary comments on the Troy Irish Genealogy Website. Pertinent sections taken from her posting are being made with her permission to the TIGS mailing list as she is looking for suggestions for a future visit.

Bill McGrath
Clifton Park, NY

1. Mary's address: marymh@optonline.net
2. Comments on TIGS Website:

"I just visited your excellent web site, and honed in on the page about Emly connections.

A note of explanation about the book, "Tombstone Inscriptions in Cemeteries in Troy, Rensselaer County, New York Indicating a Foreign Place of Origin."
I am a cousin of the author Loretta Nial; I am the person who transcribed her book, "Tombstone Inscriptions in Cemeteries in Troy, Rensselaer County, New York Indicating a Foreign Place of Origin" to be put on Pat Connor's web sites."

3. Comments on Tombstone Inscriptions book and Crowe/Niall Families :

"The reason these names were included is that they are our family lines. The many members of Crowe family who emigrated to upstate NY were born in and emigrated from the Emly area, particularly Bransha/Breansha (the spelling has varied in records), the townland just outside the main village.

I do not believe Emly was mentioned on their tombstones, but Loretta wanted to ensure our family connection was in the book for the future generations of researchers. They all were VERY proud of being "Emly Tipps!"

4. Suggestions For Troy Places to Visit:

"I have not had the privilege of visiting the various cemeteries where my Troy ancestors lie - St. Peter's and St. Joseph's-- but hope to remedy that situation this coming summer. Indeed, the only visit to Troy I have made was to Loretta's funeral.

We will be having a family reunion in Albany next summer; I would appreciate any suggestions for places to visit while up there. (off-line if this is not appropriate list material.)"

" Thanks!

Mary

I'm I bit skeptical, by law if anyone is still alive we need to have written permission to "publish" their photo on a website. However, there is no problem listing their names if you would like to do that?

Subject: [TIGS] Early Troy marriage Source?

Categories: GENEALOGY TIGS

Is there a source of early marriages before 1910 in the Troy area other than churches? I have not had any responses from St. Henry's Catholic church where ANNA WACTEL's family attended and are buried although I have sent a donation of $20 each time I write. The check gets cashed of course. ANNA MARGARET WACHTEL and JOHN H. MARTIN were probably married about 1903. I am only guessing about them being married at St. Henry's.

I am pretty sure they would have married in a Catholic church as she was a devoted Catholic all her life. Her family lived in Sand Lake. Her parents were PETER and CATHERINE (DESSOM) WACHTEL and she was born 17 March 1876. JOHN reportedly went to the Alaskan gold fields and returned to New York expecting to marry a sister of ANNA's. She had already married another so he married ANNA. He then went to Seattle and ANNA followed with 2 young boys THEODORE ROOSEVELT MARTIN and JOHN A.

MARTIN between 1907-08 when JOHN was born and April 15, 1910 when the whole family is listed in the 1910 Seattle, Washington census. JOHN H.

MARTIN could have been back and forth between Troy and Seattle in the interim. THEODORE was born 25 March 1904 and JOHN A. was 2 in 1910. I would appreciate any help anyone on the list could offer about this family.

Brian, is this the St. Henry's in Averill Park? If so, the Church has a website, with email contacts. You might try emailing the Pastor and telling him about this. It doesn't seem right that they cash your checks, but don't respond. Terry in Michigan

Hello, Brian,

A marriage that took place later than 1881 should (or may) be in the indexes of the NYS Dept of Health, which began the reporting of births, marriages and deaths at that time.

In the local region, Albany was one of the cities that did not comply with the reporting requirement until 1914, but that wouldn't apply to places outside the city of Albany.

Would you like more information about vital records and acquiring them?

Hi Nancy, I would be interested in knowing more about the NY Index, particularly if it's available on-line. I'm focusing more on NY this year, and any info is helpful. Thank you. Terry in Michigan PS my paternal ggmother was Sarah CURRAN, but I'm not close to getting info on her yet.

Yes, I would like more information about the vital statistics for the area. Is there an index on line? St. Henry's is the one in Averill Park.

Dear Listers,

The TIGS local meeting for November is 11/17/05 at the Troy Public Library @ 6PM. Ms Sweet, Reference Librarian will be the speaker. I made a flyer for the event to post in various spots in the community. If you have a spot for one (supermarket, library, town hall) I can email it to you off list. You will need publisher to open it up.

I am going on the Watervliet Arsenal tour today and will have copies of it then.

Cheers,

Lizette

During my recent visit to the Albany/Troy area of NYS, I was able to take over 500 pictures of tombstones in St Joseph's Cemetery in Troy.

It is the beginning of an ongoing project to eventually, photograph the complete cemetery and other cemeteries in the area. I have indexed all the names and so far there are over 200 surnames. Since it is a Catholic cemetery and located in South Troy where many Irish emigrants settled, most of the surnames are Irish and many mention the county and/or parish in Ireland where the emigrant was born.

Yesterday, I started to get the pictures on line, on the Troy section of my website, under Cemetery Inscriptions. In all, there are over 15 pages of pictures to upload and I hope to get them all up by the end of this week. If you live in the area and would like to help me with this project, write me off list. I had hoped to get the whole cemetery done but the weather didn't cooperate with my schedule. I am going back in May and will continue until I get the whole cemetery on line.

Subject: [TIGS] Halse/Quinn and Bishop/Sheedy Families

Categories: GENEALOGY TIGS

Hello there. I'm looking for information regarding a few different Irish families from Troy. Any information would be appreciated! Below is what I know:

Quinn:

Patrick Quinn, born around 1840, married to Ellen, born around 1845, both born in Ireland. They had three children: Mary, born 1864, Dennis, born 10/3/1870, Ellen, born around 1875. All kids born in NY.

Dennis married "Nellie", her maiden name was probably Hennessy. Ellen married William Henry Walsh, who owned a store in Troy (anyone have any info on a "Walsh's Store" in Troy?). Mary married Theodore Halse and had two children.

Looking for info such as: When did they come to America? Census says Patrick worked on Iron, any additional resources from Burden? Mary Halse, his daughter's obit came from Burden. Did Mary's husband Theodore Halse work there too?

Sheedy:

Philip Sheedy, born around 1827, married to Catherine, born around 1831, both born in Ireland. They landed in America together with their five daughters in 1861. Their kids names were: Mary, Ann, Elizabeth, Catherine and Winniped(sp?). They had another child, William, either in America or just didn't get logged when they came over. Elizabeth married Peter Bishop, and that's all I know about this family. Any more information would be appreciated. I know according to Census information that at least William Sheedy worked in Iron. Possibly Burden?

Thanks!

I was just in St. Mary's cemetery on a quick vacation trip through Troy, and though the autumn color wasn't so varied the golden maples added charm to the All Souls' Day pilgrimage. I will be interested in your findings and postins. By the way, is there a family connection of your working in the Irish American Museum admin offices off Broadway in Albany? My great grandfather, Samuel McCochrane, was born in Ireland in 1847, emigrated in 1867, lived in Lansingburgh in 1900 and died in Schaghticoke in 1903. His death certificate says he was a Melter and I think it recorded cause of death as "killed by cars instantly" so I am thinking he died at work; the 1900 census says he was an iron melter. He and Nora Connors had eight children, six born in Troy. I was online trying to find more about the industry when I came across some posts from your site. One of the emails posted said a grandfather who was an iron worker was killed there. Would it be ok to contact this person by email or should I try to post and how would I do that? Thanks to all the volunteers for all their hard work on this area.

I have updated the Ireland books section of my website. New books have been added in all sections: Parish History, Local History, Genealogy, History, Fiction. New volunteers have also been added to do lookups in the books. You can find the links by going to the URL below my name.

At the top of my homepage, under Ireland, click on Ireland Books. That will take you to the Ireland Books Discussion Mailing List website. At the bottom of that page, you will find links to both the Parish History Books and to the Ireland Book List.

If you would like to add books to this website, just use the convenient forms at the bottom of all the book pages. If you would like to volunteer to do lookups, just email me off list. If your email address has changed and you are a lookup volunteer, please write me off list, giving the the book category and title.

Sorry, I posted to wrong list.

I would like access to St. Peters records to be brought to discussion once again in the TIGS meeting this Thursday. Although I received cooperation from them initially, and they cashed my contribution, I have not heard from them again. Has anyone approached them to get their records transferred to the Archdiocese in Albany? That is general practice elsewhere! I understand that they are having difficulty as many other parishes are with financial resources. All the more reason to have their records copied! In Milwaukee the archivist at the Archdiocese is in charge of maintaining the copies. Each parish forwards their records to them on a periodic basis and the Archdiocese then returns the originals to the parish. Thanks for listening. Warren

Hi Warren

As you may know that each diocese has a different way of handling there records either there old records from a closed parishes or from an open parish. I have met with with Father Gorman from St Peter's & St Paul's and we discuss coping the records from both parishes and diffidently wants to have them copied. The problem is Father is not permanently assigned to the both of these churches, he is covering until the pastor is cleared of any misconduct he was accused of. If the old pastor does not come back then I will have the go ahead to copy for sure.

I've met with Sister Nola who is the Bishop right hand person and we discussed having the closed churches records brought for safe keeping at the Chancery. As she explains to me that they are now using closet to put people in and HAVE NO ROOM FOR ANYTHING AT THIS TIME. So until they ether move or enlarge it looks like the books will be staying where there are. I will be meeting with her again and let you know how I'm doing with the books.

Thank You

David,

Thanks for explaining the situation. Now that we know that David is handling the situation I don't think we need to add this as an agenda item. Perhaps this email exchange can serve as an update on these records.

Thanks again David!

Warren, BTW, My family has a plot in Saint Peters, Irish Immigrants in unmarked graves, I have had very little success in accessing the records at Saint Peters. I have been to the business office for various requests of different family members and have come away with very little . MY motive was to find internment records of my Great Great Grandfather to determine where in Ireland he migrated from. They also seem to be extremely disorganized.

Is my understanding correct that when David and his volunteers finish transcribing the information they obtain from the area churches, they will be charging a fee? I know that the information that we volunteers do with Bill is made available online for everyone's benefit without cost. Anyone know for certain?

I must have been lucky the day I called St. Peters cemetery a few years ago. I asked for the procedure to order an interment list and the woman who answered the phone said that she would just look it up while I was on the phone. She gave me a full list of who was buried in my family's plot along with names and dates.

Wow! This uneven response is all the more reason we need to approach the area parishes as volunteers and continue the good work that TIGS has been conducting!! Certainly needs more discussion! Warren

I would be very interested in receiving updates on the Albany diocese records and how to access them. I can't be at the meeting, I live in AZ. I assume that Sr. Nola is Nola Brunner. She was very helpful to me a few years ago in finding my great grandfather's nieces.

Eileen, I had a few problems with Saint Peters, one being inaccurate records. Their records list the grave of my Great Great Grandfather as being a "Marjorie Hooley". I was able to validate my suspicions by finding my Great Great Grandfathers obituary from records of press releases at The Troy Public Library. He died the same date as the person listed as Marjorie in our family plot, Dec 7, 1872. When requesting internment records, the first attempt I was told they did not have records prior to 1890. I then returned a month later requesting records for my Great Grandfather who passed on 12/28/1907, I was again told those records could not be located. I have 11 family members in 2 different plots at Saint Peters in unmarked graves, so any information from them would help me. Ultimately I am trying to determine what part/town in Ireland my family emigrated from. From what I have come to believe is that the internment records would provide place of birth. Thank you for you email.

Tim and et al. I have family buried in St. Peter's and have a slot reserved for me. About ten years ago I was in the cemetery looking for my sister's grave and asked the cemetery superintendent for help. He showed me a book with the names and location of everyone. I suggest you watch the funeral notices and be there when a burial is scheduled and you will be able to contact him. Lettuce might grease the skids.

Are you related to the Hooley that lived on 118th St. in the burg about 1940 - 1950? Mr. Hooley was a fireman and had three daughters.

Al, I have met the superintendent on one of my many trips to the cemetery, a good guy, helpful and a gentleman. I would guess I am some how related to the Hooleys of L'Burg. My Great Great Grandfather Morgan Immigrated in the late 1830s and first appeared in the Troy City Directory in 1840, he stayed for about ten years moved down state and back to Troy in 1865, died in 1872 and is in Saint Peters. The Hooley's came over as a family, I believe, sponsoring one another once they located. Most of them were moulders, My Great Great Uncle James P., the V.P. of the moulders Union. IN the 1850-70 they lived in close proximity to Hoosick to work in the different foundries and stove companies. Thanks for the email and your friendship. Tim----- Original Message -----

Tim,

My experience with St.Peters was mixed. With dates they did find our family plot and sent me a list of all buried there, which was most helpful. However, they did not have the ages of our Irish grandparents nor the place in Ireland they came from nor their parents names. After 20 yrs, I still have not found verification of the names I received from a paid Genealogist (in this country, nor in Ireland) the Troy death records also did not have the information although I now know their approximate ages. (Whoever makes out the death information may not have known the exact location in Ireland nor their parent's name and ages) So, a brick wall! Also in St. Peter's I was informed the cemetery fees were never paid and therefore our family owed several hundred dollars back fees. We paid the fees, and received the cemetery list. Our approx. years were 1880-1920.

Hi,

I am a new list member. I am a native of Troy, St. Paul's parish. Though we haven't lived in Troy for many years, we now spend summers in the area.

I hope to be able to make a meeting or two next summer; you all sound like a lively group.

The website is very good; I have gleaned a lot of info on Troy history. My son-in-law, who is neither from Troy nor Irish, but is a dedicated genealogy researcher, found the website.

I have been following the comments about accessing records in St. Peter's church. I just would like to suggest patience with the pastor, Father Gorman. He is in a difficult position and busy with the administration of St. Paul's and St. Peter's, as well as the "virtual" parish of the Tridentine Rite. I expect genealogy research may not be a high priority right now with all he has to do. I would love to help with copying records if time would allow next summer.

Keep up the good work.

Subject: [TIGS] Heads-up for an event next June

Categories: GENEALOGY TIGS

Before the upcoming holiday whirl begins next week with its demands on time and attention, here's some genealogical news that you may want to note for next spring.

The Ballykilcline Society will hold its annual Reunion in Albany, NY and Rutland, VT from June 25-27, 2006 with a line-up of great speakers. The Society will welcome local genealogists who are NOT members to all or part of the planned events, which will take place at the College of Saint Rose in Albany on Sunday, June 25, the Holiday Inn Turf in Albany and the Rutland Holiday Inn the following day, and the Rutland Holiday Inn on Tuesday, June 27.

The speakers in Albany will include Ruth-Ann Harris of Boston College's Irish Studies program, who is a historian and lead editor of the well-known Missing Friends book series which presents immigrants' Boston Pilot ads for lost family members; John J. McEneney, New York State legislator and former Albany County historian; and Jeannie O'Keefe, webmaster and a founding member of the Troy Irish Genealogical Society. In Rutland, the main speaker will be Michael Austin of Castleton College, whose doctoral dissertation dealt with Rutland's Irish immigrant history.

The Ballykilcline Society is a non-profit international organization which aims to trace the histories of the tenant farmers evicted from a townland near Strokestown in County Roscommon during 1847 and 1848 and to foster the local history of that part of Ireland, especially during the early and middle 1800s. The Ballykilcline rent strike, evictions, and forced emigration of several hundred people were the subjects of historian Robert Scally in his 1995 book, The End of Hidden Ireland. For 40 years, Ballykilcline was part of the Mahon estate in Strokestown where Ireland's Famine Museum is now located. Many immigrants "assisted" from the Mahon estate died at Grosse Ile in Quebec during the calamity there in the summer of 1847. The Society's web site, which lists the Ballykilcline evictees by name, is at www.ballykilcline.com; annual membership is $15 a year. Previous Reunions have been held in Ireland, Canada, and the U.S.

The Society has learned that dozens of immigrants from Ballykilcline settled in or stayed for a time in Rutland, which had social, commercial, and economic contacts with Troy and Albany due to proximity, connecting rail lines, markets, and so forth. At least two TIGS members (Lynne Sisk and Mary Lee Dunn) are very active in the Society.

This event should be of interest to anyone whose ancestors came out of Famine Ireland. This notice is a heads-up. Further information will be posted after the holidays when the Reunion registration period begins.

Tim:

When I called St. Peters I was primarily interested in getting some death dates so that I could order death certificates from the state of NY. I've never actually visited St. Peters as I've only been in Troy once.

The death dates that they gave me were accurate and I was able to order the death certificates. The death certificates that I've ordered do not have the name of the town in Ireland. I've also ordered internment lists from two cemeteries in NY and they only provided the country name -- Ireland --- but no town reference.

I did find that a "James Langton" (presumably my great-great grandfather) emigrated from Ireland from Dublin from a list on the TIGS site.

I find that looking at naturalization and alien declaration records at the county clerk's office is the better way in finding the place in Ireland, not all the time but every once in awhile they list a village instead of just Ireland. In the case of cemetery records you just get the death dates most of the time. I also check the death dates in the newspapers of the time and see what is listed in their obit Another source I have come across is baptismal records listing the godparents which are probably relatives you might try tracking them in naturalization/alien records.

Hi Bette,

Thanks for your kind comments, and welcome to the list. Any list members who find themselves in the area on the 3rd Thursdays of the month are most welcome to come to a local meeting. Check website for details on time & place.

Just to clarify, the church records transcriptions is a project of the ACGS (American Canadian Genealogy Society). Some of the TIGS list members are assisting by volunteering their time and efforts to work on this project, because it is of obvious value to those researching the Troy area. If you'd like to volunteer, I am sure ACGS would appreciate your help on this very worthwhile project.

Do you know whether the ACGS will be making the church records available free of charge or will there be a fee to access these.

The Troy and New York State Library along with the individual churches have copies of the books which have been completed which you can access. St Peter's is a long long way off.

Hi Pam,

You can email David Bonitatibus who is a member of the ACGS and is in charge of us locally in getting us access to local church records. His email is nychurchrecords@aol.com

The more churches we are able to copy the better for us with the recods we are able to find for our genealogy. Are you local Pam, actually you don't even have to be local as David has people all around the country just like Bill Mc Grath does, maybe you could volunteer?

As Kevin mentioned, the local libraries usually purchase copies of these books. You can also purchase the books at ACGS website if you want to.

Here is their website:

Hi Listers. Coincidentally, I just received some Naturalization papers from Albany County yesterday (my relatives moved back and forth between Cohoes and Troy). On the page of 19 names, five were from Ireland. Only one listed 'birth place' as Cork...the other four just said 'Ireland'.

Naturally, mine wasn't the 'Cork' one. One thing that I can't figure out is this...under the heading 'Whence Migrated', all the Irish names say 'Queenstown'. The writing is not very good, but that's what it looks like.

The only Queenstown that I know of is in New Zealand. Was there a port in England by that same name?. My ancestor, Thomas Diveney, came over with all his children. I can't imagine what they would have been doing in NZ after leaving Ireland. Any ideas on this would really be appreciated. Thanks.

To expand on this just a little... Cobh (pronounced cove) is the old Irish name of the port. It was known as Queenstown for a period of time but then reverted to the old name of Cobh in the 1920s.

I think Cobh (Cove) or Queenstown was the point of embarkation for most ships to America in the time frame of the famine. Families most likely came from many places in Ireland to embark at Cobh.

My paternal grandparents were from County Mayo and traveled to Queenstown and left from there in 1908, I remember my grandmother mentioning Queenstown.

And a question from the 1900 census - does the "na" in the naturalization column mean naturalized or the more common meaning of "not applicable"?

What are the most likely arrival ports in North America for Irish who came to the Troy/Cohoes/Albany area? Was Canada a common entry point?

Hi Lois. The odd thing about the 'Cork' name is that it's very similar to my own name...the name I'm researching right now. We spell our name DIVINEY, but it's been spelled so many different ways on various censuses, obits, etc. The name of the Cork man on the Declaration of Intention is PATRICK DEVINY. He's 21 years old, and the date of 'Intent' is Nov. 1888. The 'Intended Settlement' is very difficult to read. I'll try to decipher it and send it to you off-List. It looks like 'Green something. I know there's a Green Island in the Troy area. I received two sets of papers from Albany...the Intention and the final Naturalization. His name isn't on the final one. Terry PS Yes, the NA stands for Naturalized.

A few years ago I found the obituary for my ancestor Patrick Toomey in the Cohoes Republican newspaper, Dec 31, 1899.

In that same issue, or maybe the day before, there was a complete listing of all the death notices that were printed in the paper during the entire year, with name and date.

It might be very fruitful to explore other years and other newspapers to see if this practice was common. This might be a gold mine of easily accessible data.

Hi Mark,

Before Ellis Island opened in 1892 in NYC there was Castle Garden which they embarked at, you can search for families there at www.castlegarden.org/

I have noticed they immigrated to Boston and I think Canada (Quebec) was another entry point.

Hi Terri,

My great grandfather Mike Martin had half siblings with last name Dewane alternately spelled Dwane, Devane, Devine, etc.. They were from County Galway and they settled in Green Island around 1895-1900. Actually I have seen it listed as Divine too.

The Troy papers did this too either in the last issue of the year or the beginning of the new year(first couple of issues) I have checked them out while at Troy Library , might be a great project to get at least death dates.
I think it was Troy Daily Times.

Ruth Sweet mentioned this at her presentation at our meeting on Thurs. Troy Library does have yearly obit listings from the Times Union, but they only go back to 1986.

Local members should ask for a copy of Ruth's 20 page handout when visiting the Troy Library. It's got a purple cover and is called "Finding Your Ancestors at the Troy Public Library." Even if you think you know the Troy Room pretty well, you might find something you didn't know about, as I did.

I just received a naturalization document in the mail and until now was unaware that they would be in alphabetical order so there is no need for you to decipher it for me; I'm not researching any names that begin with D. But thanks anyway for the offer. The names I now have all refer to the Troy/Cohoes area so I will pick out the ones from Ireland and post later in case it will help anyone else. The info didn't help with my research but may help someone else.

Thanks,

Categories: GENEALOGY TIGS

These are the names on the declaration of intent from Albany Hall of Records Oct 1872-Oct1874 last names G. I have no idea how complete this copy is; so it doesn't mean all G names are recorded on the copy I have. All show nation as Ireland except for Gick..

Patrick Gillice, Michael Graham, Michael Guilmartin, Patrick D. Gibbs, William A. Gick (Isle of Man) The are names from naturalization same source, Sep 1872-Oct 1873 last names G.

James E. Green, Thomas Gibbs, James Gibbs, Marshall Gray, John Gibbs, Albert George Goodbody, Patrick Greene, Terrence Gaffney, and again Patrick Gallice, all from Ireland.

Hope this will help someone.

The Ireland GenWeb County Tipperary website has been updated. New town(land)s added or updated include Ardnagassan, Aughvallydeag, Ballyhane East & West, Blackstairs, Boolanunane, Brownbog, Cappagh, Clonmurrage, Cummer Beg & More, Curraheen, Druminda, Foilaclug, Gortaderry, Cappaghwhite Town, Cahernahallia, Gortmahonoge, Inchinsquillib, Inchivara, Kilbeg, Kilmore, Knockanavar, Knockane, Knockduff, Losset, Moanvaun, Moher East & West, Oldcastle, Parkroe, Piperhill, Reafadda, Thurles Town, Nenagh, Newport Town, Newtown, Clonmel Town, Carrick on Suir Town, Ballynacree, Tipperary Town, Reagoulane, Shanacloon, Toem, Tooreen, Ayle, Ballykeevin.

New links, surnames, maps, Griffith's Valuations have been added plus a webpage for the Toem Civil Parish. I have also started to add to the homepage, the entire entry about County Tipperary in the 1837 Samuel Lewis' Topographical Dictionary of Ireland. It is quite lengthy and will take me some time to finish it but it is fascinating, descriptive and historical.

You can find the website at:

Hi Marbeth. I got the papers by writing to Albany. The cost is $20.00. Just follow the link that Kevin gave in his email. I thought the Troy Gen. Soc. website had a link to it, but I can't pull up their site right now. In case you deleted his email, here's the link

<http://www.albanycounty.com/departments/achor/naturalizationindexes.asp?id=856>

If it doesn't work, just go to albanycounty.com and follow the links to 'naturalization'. It will explain what to do if you find a name in their index. Terry in Michigan

Hi!

I was very pleased to find your site. My grandfather was Lawrence Joseph McGivern. He was raised at the St. Joseph's Orphanage in Troy, as was his older brother John McGivern. He told of going to work in a shirt factory at 9 years old. I would like to find out all I can about his family.

I believe his family is listed in the 1880 census as McGiven Thanks Alice Montgomery

Canada was a cheaper passage than on U.S. ships to U. S. ports which had put costly requirements and penalties on ships coming in.. I'm trying to find our CONNOLLY's who entered through St. John's Quebec in June/July, 1844. I understand as the famine spread and worsened by 1846 and 1847 and later years, landlord's were paying passage to Canada to clear their estates of impoverished tenants, so thousands came into Canada and many went south. Author Gerard Moran takes up the issue in his book, Sending Out Ireland's Poor / Assisted Emigration to North America in the Nineteenth Century (Four Courts Press, 2004). His study showed that a far greater number of Irish were helped across the Atlantic than previously was known. He also deals with immigration through Quebec and St. John. His book is the most detailed account I have seen of Famine-time emigration.

Kevin,

The various spellings caught my eye when Devine turned up.

Lydia Devine, b 1861, died 1932 in Ballston Spa, Saratoga Co., NY. She Married John Dean, b 1859 in Saratoga Co., d 1932 Ballston Spa.

Her parents, Michael Devine and Mary Ann Shaw.

One census said Lydia was born in Wyoming Co., NY (if I read it right). But I have not found anything there, and that's the only time I saw it.

I have no information on Mary Ann Shaw and Michael Devine other than their names.

Do these names mean anything to you? Or to anyone?

Thanks.

Kevin,

Do you know where in Galway your family came from? My great-grandparents, JOHN and JANE (ANDERSON) REYNOLDS, settled in Green Island when they came from Galway in 1882. They had lived in Moher, rather south west of Ballinasloe. Their marriage, in the parish register, records Jane as living in Ballymintan, County Roscommon.

Hi Sheila,

My family came from the parish of Kilquain and Fahy in the eastern part of County Galway, pretty close to Killimor and Eyrecourt.

Kevin,

Guess I should have written Galway/Green Island!! Ah well...

Just wondered whether our people may have known each other on both sides of the pond. They may have been acquainted in Green Island, at least.

I was ebaying today and noticed a bible with names recorded from Albany NY. I thought I would pass it along.

The following names are recorded in the Family Record pages: William Shepard, b. Albany NY 1815, Sally Everett (his wife) b. New London, N.H. 1818, William Shepard Gibbs, b. Albany NY 1875, and their children: William Henry Shepard, Mary Lorena Shepard, Charles Edgar Shepard, Mary Frances Shepard, Charles Ernest Shepard

Its listed under 1851 family bible genealogy. I do not own this bible nor do I no the person who does. But I thought It may be of interest to someone in our group.

On a recent trip to Quebec I unfortunately did not reserve ahead to go to Grosse Ile and the trip was filled when we tried to buy tickets. I did however purchase "Grosse Ile/ Gateway to Canada 1832-1937", by Marianna O'Gallagher.

Grosse Ile served as a quarantine station for European immigrants during many outbreaks of cholera and other diseases. In 1847-1848 most of the immigrants were from Ireland, being forced into leaving and arriving suffering from Typhus mainly.

The book contains an alphabetical list of orphans in the Catholic Orphanage of Quebec in 1847. There are 619 names and also the names of the people who adopted them. The information is as follows; name, age, date of entry, father and mother if known, parish, county and vessel if known and adopted by.

Many in lieu of "adopted by" states died or returned to family.

The book has several other incomplete lists; vessels at the Ile in July 1847 and a list of 159 names of people who died at the Isle hospital from the 1st of May 1847 with their age, vessel they arrived on, from where, date of admission and date of death, disease and what happened to their property (this is by date of death, not alphabetical).

If you are fairly certain that you had family come into Canada during this time period I would be happy to do a look up for you. Since it is the holidays and I am involved in several transcription projects, I would ask that you only ask for a look up if you think there is a possibility of connection and then have patience as I have a turkey to cook and family to feed.

Happy Holidays, by the way.

It's too bad you missed Grosse Ile, Kris. It is well worth a visit. There is a memorial wall there with the names of the dead engraved on something like plexiglass so that as you stand reading the names, you see the rows of small white crosses in the graveyard behind the wall. Many buildings still survive on the island as well.

Another book with names from Grosse Ile is A Register of Deceased Persons at Sea and on Grosse Ile in 1847 by Andre Charbonneau and Doris Drolet-Dube, which has been put out by Parks Canada. It lists the people who died at the island's hospitals, in quarantine on ship, or on the passage across the Atlantic to Grosse Ile. The info generally includes the individual's name and age, the vessel on which they traveled, the port and country from which they embarked and the date of death (actual or approximate). The book lists thousands of people.

For example, Denis Mahon of Strokestown in Roscommon paid passage for nearly 1,000 of his evicted tenants in the dreadful summer of 1847. More than half of them died en route or on the island. Their names are listed on the memorial wall and, since the names of his chartered ships are known, you can, for the most part, tell which people were his tenants. In addition, in April 1848, the bishop of Elphin listed the names of more than 600 heads of households (which totaled about 3,000 people) evicted by Mahon in a letter to the Freeman's Journal, a prominent Irish newspaper. In some cases, you can trace individuals from the bishop's list to their deaths at Grosse Ile and then what happened to their children in O'Gallagher's list of orphans. The death rates that summer were highest aboard some of Mahon's ships and Canadian authorities filed vigorous protests with the British. Many of these evicted tenants of Mahon's were the relatives and friends of the people evicted from !

Ballykilcline (whose story is told in Robert Scally's book The End of Hidden Ireland). It was only a few months after Mahon's tenants landed in Quebec in such desperate circumstances that Mahon was assassinated in November 1847.

Marianna O'Gallagher has written or edited, singly or with others, several books about Grosse Ile. They should interest anyone whose people arrived in the U.S. about that time through Quebec and other Canadian ports like St. John in New Brunswick.

It is Denis Mahon's estate at Strokestown where Ireland's Famine Museum is now located and an extensive archive of the estate records (tenancy and labor agreements etc) exists at both the museum and manor house and at the National Library of Ireland.

FYI, if you know who your family's landlord is AND if you learn that records from that estate are at the National Library of Ireland, it is possible to custom order copies of those records from the library. The Ballykilcline Society has been doing this for several years for the Mahon estate, which leased Ballykilcline from the 1790s until 1834.

Hi Lynn, When I saw your message on TIGS, it reminded me to send a message to you. I did meet your mother at one of the Elk's dinners and I wanted to tell you what a lovely person she is. I couldn't get over how wonderful she looks and is so sharp for her age. It was such a coincidence that she and her nephew, I believe, just happened to sit at the table that we were at. Joe Dobrindt, who is a friend of ours, was at our table and your Mom knew all of his relatives that were raised on Canal Ave. She is a wonder! God bless her. Kay Brearton has me doing some volunteer work proofreading births from St. Mary's Church in Troy. I've enjoyed meeting so many nice people through TIGS. Hope that I'll get to see you again sometime. Hope that you and your family will have a wonderful Thanksgiving!

To expand on this just a little... Cobh (pronounced cove) is the old Irish name of the port. It was known as Queenstown for a period of time but then reverted to the old name of Cobh in the 1920s.

Hello, Sheila,

I haven't gone much further than Michael Curran's 1947 death certificate, obituary and census enumerations, plus some family stories.

He was born in Ballyhale, Headford, Galway, Ireland, I believe. Later I think his family ran Curran's Pub in Galway. Now I think it is O'Malley's.

He was the son of Mathias Curran and Mary McHugh of Ballyhale. He married Mary Nolan, dau of Martin Nolan and Catherine Murphy.

He came to America with his brother Patrick, before 1888. In 1952 Patrick died intestate, which is the reason that relatives in Ireland are known by name and place.

I found Michael J. Curran in Troy in the 1892-93 city directory, listed as a puddler, boarding at 544 Fourth St., Troy. In 1901-02 his occupation was ironworker.

In the 1920 Census Michael Curran is listed as naturalized in 1888. That would probably have been in New York City, since his granddaughters say the couple were married in St. Patrick's Church, New York City, on a Fourth of July, perhaps 1889. Of course the geography changes if the marriage occurred upstate instead.

1900 Census: Soundex: Vol. 221, ED 101, Sheet 13, Line 51 Michael Curran, born May 1866 Ireland

Res: 536 Fourth St., Troy, Rensselaer Co., NY

Mary Oct 1865 34 Ireland

Mathias Jun 1893 6 NY

Thomas May 1895 5 NY

Mary Mar 1896 4 NY

William Mar 1898 2 NY

John Nolan Jul 1871 28 Ireland brother-in-law

There was a Mathias Curran, older than Mike, who came to Troy earlier. I don't know of any relationship, though. Maybe it was a cousin.

Hi Nancy. If you should ever come across a 'Sarah Curran' born c. 1840, would you please let me know, or post to the List? My ggfather, Thomas Diviney (Divney, Diville, and other spellings) married a Sarah Curran. The Divineys may have been from the Headford area. My g.father, Patrick Diviney, married Catherine Tierney. I know there were Tierneys in Headford at some point, as Catherine had a brother, Peter Tierney, whom my father had to contact in Headford. Thanks. Terry in Michigan

Mary, the last time I was in Ireland I went to the Famine Museum in Strokestown. It is one of those places where you just stand and can sense the sorrow. In fact I purchased a copy of the letter to the Freeman's Journal on 4/26/1848 with the list of families evicted. My reason was historical as well as that there was a James Cooney (family of 6) on the list. Cooney is my maiden name and I have not had much luck, despite several trips to Ireland. This copy is framed in my computer room and is often taken down to read again..... I went to the Ballykilcline website and read the names of the evictee's. This can't be a complete list?? There are many more names, including Cooney, listed in the letter. Is this just one particular group?

I have been reading THE END OF HIDDEN IRELAND by Robert James Scully about Roscommon and Strokestown, It is such a wrenching portrayal of the "clearance" and eviction of tenants and gives me far more understanding of the tragedy of Ireland and how many landlords used the Famine as a way to rid themselves of poor indebted tenants. Mary Lee: Thanks for the details, especially for tracing families, I just mentioned to another e-mail that I was reading Scully's book. It is an eye-opener. Hi, Kris,

The Ballykilcline evictees are not the same group as Mahon's evictees. By the time of the Famine, the Mahons no longer leased Ballykilcline; it belonged to the queen of England and was run by British Crown authorities. The Crown evicted the people there.

Approximately 500 people lived in Ballykilcline, which was in Kilglass Parish, and the Crown sent about 368 of them to New York, paying their way.

Just about the same time, Denis Mahon evicted 3,000 people from his estate, which consisted of townlands in Kilglass Parish and around Strokestown. The people named in the bishop's letter were the heads of those households. Mahon paid passage for about 980 of them to go to Quebec in the summer of 1847. From several records on Mahon's emigration (both from the estate and from Grosse Ile), it appears that more than 500 of them died aboard ship, in quarantine at Grosse Ile, or in the island's hospitals.

The two groups of evictees, however, likely consisted of friends and relatives, and until 1834 Ballykilcline was part of the Mahon estate, which had leased it from the Crown for forty years.

Does that help? Are your Cooneys from Roscommon? If so, I'll search other records that I have to see whether Cooneys are listed. I know I've seen the name in Roscommon. You also may want to search for Cooneys in the archive at Ed Finn's Leitrim-Roscommon web site at www.leitrim-roscommon.com.

Mary, the last time I was in Ireland I went to the Famine Museum in Strokestown. It is one of those places where you just stand and can sense the sorrow. In fact I purchased a copy of the letter to the Freeman's Journal on 4/26/1848 with the list of families evicted. My reason was historical as well as that there was a James Cooney (family of 6) on the list. Cooney is my maiden name and I have not had much luck, despite several trips to Ireland.

This copy is framed in my computer room and is often taken down to read again.....

I went to the Ballykilcline website and read the names of the evictee's.

This can't be a complete list?? There are many more names, including Cooney, listed in the letter. Is this just one particular group?

You are right, Alethea. The ones who got out before the Famine were the lucky ones. The whole economic and social landscape during and just before the Famine was very chaotic and extremely hard on the Irish people.

In the case of Roscommon, many landlords were trying to break the traditional practices re land use to convert their properties to more lucrative grazing lands, which required far fewer laborers. So jobs for the Irish became scarce. In addition, the way they leased land also was changing. Landlords were trying to "rationalize" their holdings -- that is, break the customary rundale traditions and reconfigure their estates into neat, square parcels and then re-let them. Some of the largest land agents in Ireland were advocating doing this.

Mary Lee: Thanks for the details, especially for tracing families, I just mentioned to another e-mail that I was reading Scully's book. It is an eye-opener. It sheds light on how fortunate some families were to leave Ireland ahead of the worst of Famine evictions, if they had that choice. A. Connolly

Bill & Cathy, this would be wonderful - thank you! Clyde & Pat Robbins have been telling me for years of your wonderful work on family history. I finally looked for your site on Google & signed up. Our whole family is going to Ireland - at last - on Good Friday for 8 days. So I'm trying to find out something about our history beforehand.

How is your sister Peggy, Bill. We were great friends in grammar school at St. Joseph's!
