I would also like to thank all who worked on the Burden Iron Company Payroll Records project. I have found listings for many of my ancestors. I appreciate the time and effort it took to put it all together.

Mary,

Unfortunately I don't a single sibling male or female of Richard Walsh. As I said there are many Walsh families and I wouldn't be surprised to be related to one or more of them but I don't know. The only one I spoke to didn't know if his grandfather had a brother Richard. If I find any connection to Troy or Livingston County I'm sure I will be posting it to the list.

Ellis,

I was also at Betty's wake and was president of the Troy AOH for three years. My wife and I went in the late afternoon and knew Betty Bott and her kids but not the younger children.

But you are quite right about how little children and grandchildren know of thier ancestors. I was no different and when I finally started looking the ones who could have told me were dead. My maternal grandmother gave me some info but I was only somewhat interested and I presumed when she passed I would have her aunt's DAR application to fall back on. Unfortunately my maternal grandfather threw it and most of her possessions and papers away before the wake was over. On our Irish side everyone (both sides) were from County Cork. I have found Kerry, Mayo and Wexford but no Cork yet. Some were born in the U.S. not Ireland at all. Then there is the confusion of names and who relatives are talking about. My father talked about his grandfather (I don't know which one) being from Duncannon. I have yet to find a Duncannon in Ireland. I have found a Glencannon in Wexford where his grandmother is from but my guess now is his paternal grandfather who in probably referring to North or South Dunkerron in County Kerry. So you to tell the family not only where but who you are talking about. But if the family is not close or you grow up with few or no aunts and uncles it's a problem to search for the family. As you said write it down and put in on the computer.

Rick Shea

P.S. Did you find any Walsh families in Troy?

You speak the truth about descendants not knowing where in Ireland their ancestors came from. My Mom's cousin, Lawrence Malone, had heard from several sources that our ancestors came from Cork. But one family member insisted they came from Offlay.

Last year in going through some of my Mom's, Margery Malone-Cooney, papers I found a 1949 will of a Maria Malone, cousin of my great grandfather, and in it she listed living relatives in Ireland and all of them were from County Offlay. With that document we were finally able to pin the location in Ireland.

Also my great grandmother, Bridget McIntyre-Malone was from the same, County Offlay.

Maria and her entire family, by the way lived in Troy.

Kathleen,

Very sorry if the story offended you....it was designed to show that family stories may not include the actual place where someone originated and may lead researchers to locations that wouldn't net any relevant information.

I spoke to a group of Betty's grandchildren perhaps also including some great grandchildren and at least one or two of her children. The Clara location wasn't known by anyone I spoke to but Co. Clare was referenced. Unfortunately, I didn't get the names of the people I spoke with or where they live in the area so unfortunately I can't document that.

Everyone at the wake appeared to know each other and of course I didn't know anyone so it was also somewhat awkward since no one knew who I was or what my connection might have been. I therefore have no idea who may have been there at what time during the wake you or anyone else may have attended.

Again, sincere apologies about the story offending.

Ellis,

I think you may have spoken to the wrong people at Betty Elligott's wake. I attended four years of high school with "young" Betty and was a member of the Troy AOH when Betty, Sr. was very active. Betty Jr. (marriage name - Bott) told me years ago that her mother came from Co. Offaly; perhaps you spoke with grandchildren who were not knowledgeable about their grandmother.

Ron Elligott lives near me in Wynantskill and I see him every once in a while.

I also attended Mrs. Elligott's wake at John Clinton's Funeral Home; perhaps our paths crossed.

I don't know if anyone knew Betty and Paddy Elligott who were members of the Troy AOH but Betty was from a small town in Co. Offaly called Clara. Clara is still a small town altho very congested now with traffic compounded by a new sewer line the County Council is installing.

There were several Offaly people in Troy (Brackens, Weirs, Robbins just to name a few). Betty had two sisters, Maisie Hayes (who lived in Albany with her husband Jimmy on Magnolia Terrace) and Bridie and Mike Robbins who were on Orr St. Much of my knowledge of the Troy AOH (and its people) is thru stories I've heard which originated with them.

Betty Elligott was the last of the three sisters and she died in January 2003 I believe. I happened to be in the area then doing some research and went to Betty's wake at the funeral home on Third St. at Washington Park.

Of course I was fully expecting her children and grandchildren to have indepth knowledge of not only Clara but the Offaly people in Troy they might have heard from her. I was hoping to make a few more Offaly connections for the Irish side (who of course have no clue either about where Troy might be -- they think it's New York City!).

I was very surprised to find that not only had Betty's children and grandchildren not heard anything about Clara (very disappointing because Clara just like most of Ireland has a very interesting history) but they actually thought Betty was from Co. Clare! I don't think they had even looked at an Irish map either (and sorry if this sounds like criticism but it's actually just an observation which could also be made about people in Ireland. They often never look at US maps either!).

So I would caution about what family might say regarding where your ancestors originated because it may very well send you looking in the wrong places!.

I would also recommend that you write down, computerize or make some other record of whatever information you learn about your family. Your children or others may not be interested at all at the time you want to tell them the detail but if you've written it down at least hopefully any of your descendents interested in their "Irish roots" will have some more more factual information about their Irish connections!

There were Clancy's on Green Island (where I grew up) which is right next to Watervliet. I believe the family is still there. You might call or write them. I've actually had some luck contacting present day family with the same surnames in the area I'm researching, to see if there's a connection.

Eilis,
just cause they are not in the index doesn't mean they did not live there. I have an ancestor who was a business man there for almost 30 years and was a trustee in 1861 and city treasurer in 1877, but he is not mentioned. It is an oddly written book, very "choppy" and broken up chronologically, you'd have to see it. -Mike also Watervliet City was incorporated 1896 from a few different things- Port Schuyler, Gibbonsville, and West Troy. One other entity I think also. But the township of Watervliet before this I believe actually encompassed what is now Menands (Port Schuyler or North Albany), Loudonville, Latham, Colonie Village (Now all in the Town of Colonie) What year?

Mike,

Thanks very much. That helps narrow my search.

I've seen her place of birth alternately as Watervliet, Menands and Colonie depending on the event so the info is much appreciated.

Hello fellow listmembers,

Yesterday I spoke with Kathy Sheehan at the Rensselaer County Historical Society about a tour for interested TIGS members. She gave me the following potential dates:
Saturday, September 11th (only available time in the morning) Saturday, September 25th
Saturday, October 2nd or sometime in November.
The times could be 11am or 1pm for the last three options.

If you are interested in this tour, please let me know your preferred date by Tuesday, August 31st. I'll tally up the responses and let the list know the most popular date and time. It would be great if we could let Kathy know our decision on September 1st.

Thanks very much,

Jeanne,

Thanks very much.

I have contacted the historians in various towns in Rensselaer county (primarily the northern parts of the county) and Washington County but could never find anyone for the City of Troy.

One more question (sorry to belabour this). Do you know of any records (primarily membership records) that the Troy AOH might have kept? I don't know when it was established but believe at some point it was near Burke's (the railroad tracks somewhere behind it?)and then moved to Second St.?

Thanks very much for the information re: Waterford.

I did have a Troy question. I've checked the City of Troy website as well as the Rensselaer County website and it appears neither the county nor city has a staff historian? So I'm presuming history-related information would either be thru the Troy Public Library or the Rensselaer County Historical Society?

I received an e-mail in association with the "Images of America Troy" book from Maura Shaw who is currently writing a book on a Co. Clare emigrant who goes to Troy and helped found the Collar Laundresses Union.

The book is called "The Keeners" and is set for publication around St. Patrick's Day 2005. I have no connection to either the book or Maura Shaw (I don't know her at all - just received her e-mail yesterday) but I thought I'd let you know about the new book.

Here's the link about the book from her website:

<http://www.mauradshaw.com/>

She may be worth putting on a list as a potential meeting speaker (I have no idea what her fees are).

Hello all:

No this is Waterford, Ireland, not Waterford, NY. But if you have relatives from County Waterford, this may be very helpful.

Mary,

I knew there had to be a Washington County connection.

You wouldn't believe how many Troy people have relations there (Cambridge, Greenwich, Easton, White Creek) as well as Hoosick Falls in Rensselaer County as well as over into Vermont including Bennington, Pownall and Rutland just to name a few places).

Not to worry about unnecessary effort. When I'm researching I just pick up all the names in addition to whatever other connections there may be so in reality it's only a few minutes time to add surname detail. I now bring my laptop with me as well as a digital camera so it's much more efficient and time saving than just a few years ago when I wrote everything and then had to decipher my handwriting in re-keying onto a desktop!

If you have the Vermont information let me know as well as the Washington County detail. The area there from Lansingburgh thru Schaghticoke, west in Rensselaer County to Buskirk's Bridge, north to Easton as well as west from there to Cambridge is full of Irish emigrants and connections so I've learned not to discount anything with them. I did in the beginning and then kicked myself because I didn't pick up the information when I could have and had to retrace my steps!

I've been thru the naturalisation records in Washington County (Ft. Edward) for many of them but have lots more to do at some point and I can just add Fallon to the list. I have to go to Bennington and Pownal at some point to look at the Town Clerks' records so it's no problem.

Many of them emigrated thru Canada and down the Champlain Canal, were in Vermont and Washington County and down the Hudson River to Troy.

Fallons are very common in Roscommon and on over into Westmeath and Offaly over the years. I think most of the families had trouble with the British at one time or another!

To save you from unnecessary effort, my Fallons could have been there no more than a few years between 1850 and 1860, if the information I have is correct. Michael immigrated in 1839, but was in Massachusetts and or Canada until 1850, with a splash of Vermont claimed in one census birth c 1850. It seemed that railroad construction kept them on the move, though he is most often described as a farmer. Ginger, Thanks very much for the information and the offer.

I thought maybe St. Mary's would be a challenge! I'm looking for Conway, Walsh (spelled Welch, Welsh in earlier Troy records and later corrected to Walsh), Quinn, Flynn and Stanton. I believe Henley (Henly) may also be buried there.

Walsh, Quinn, Stanton, and Henley were from Mayo and Flynn from Cork. One of the Flynns was a police officer in Troy in the early twentieth century. Flynns were also connected to Kewleys (Kewly) in Troy.

Julitta Nial who died in January 2003 was one of the Walsh group (large family in Mayo several of whom went to Troy). It appears from the surname her husband may have been a relation of Lorette Nial? I believe Julitta lived in Brunswick when she died and she was a sister of one of the Stantons who is (was?) in Green Island I believe at that time. (I'll have to check her obituary).

They're also connected (by marriage) to Stapletons in Albia (i.e. Maureen Stapleton). Walshs and Quinns are connected and one of the Quinns too went to Green Island from Troy. As an aside, I believe three of the Quinns wound up in the Boston area -- Jamaica Plain and Charleston.

John Quinn was married to Mollie Rowland Quinn from Mayo. She died in 1999 in Troy and they had no children. She lived on Fifth Avenue. One of the Quinns also returned to Ireland and married a Leydon (Lydon) from Tuam in Galway where he owned a bicycle shop.

Padraig and Mary Quinn are currently on the Quinn Family farm in Ballyheragh (Cloghans Hill), Mayo with their small children. They went to Boston a few years ago to try to trace the Quinns but had no luck. They had heard about the Troy connection but either didn't know where Troy was or didn't have time to do research there. It seems more likely they didn't know where Troy was located.

I can give you more specific Quinn names and dates.

If you ran across any of them at any time in the future that would be great but there's no rush!

I went to St. Peter's Cemetery a few times but think whoever might be buried there didn't have a headstone.

There's also a connection between Quinns and Quirks (from Ardane in Tipperary) and one of the Quirk's is buried in St. Peter's. There's a very small grave marker I found which can be easily missed.

I did contact the Albany Diocesan Cemetery Office and there's a search fee for each name and with so many of them I thought it best to do my own search!

Thanks again.

Mary,

I checked my list of vital records from the Schaghticoke Town Clerk's office for Fallons and the records only go back to 1886 but I didn't find anything for the surname or its variations.

I had copied many of the tombstones from St. John's Cemetery in Schaghticoke but don't have Fallon (so far) and the pages I copied from the LDS list of that cemetery didn't include that portion of the alphabet (I had copied Flynnns).

But this is a work in progress so I'll let you know as any more information is available.

...Miss Lydia Hull, a well known and esteemed young lady, was killed July 22, 1862, on the new steam ferry boat at the landing foot of what is now 16th st., being struck by some timbers while standing by the railing as the boat was entering the slip. The company settled with her mother for something near $2000....

not sure why it is listed under 1883, but that is how this book is laid out. All over the place chronologically.

Dear Patrick,

Thank you for the information on the soldiers buried in Flanders Field. I don't know their history, but to add to your research, I do have an ancestor who died on Sept. 13, 1918, probably in the battle at St. Mihiel. His name was John M. Ryan and he was a Second Lieutenant, Co. H., 166th Infantry, 42nd ( or Rainbow ) Division. He was 27 years old when he died. His parents were Mary Frances McAuliffe Ryan and James H. Ryan and they lived at 127 Ferry St. in Troy, NY, at that time. According to the burial record at St. Mary's cemetery in Troy, John Ryan was buried there on June 16, 1921. Given the three years' time between his death and burial, I wonder if the burial in Troy was just a symbolic ceremony. Good luck in your research,
Mary McAuliffe Nigro

The following message was posted on another list. The poster's e-mail addy is patrick.lernout@pandora.be

Eilis O'Hara

My name is Patrick Lernout. I live in Waregem-Belgium at about one mile from the US Flanders Field military cemetery. I am interested in the history of World War 1, so this cemetery has my special attention. I started to write a book about the soldiers buried here and am looking for information about all those men. I think the book would be a great tribute for those young Americans who gave their lives for the freedom of my country. In the cemetery are buried three soldiers from Troy.

David Beattie, Joseph McGrath and Joseph McLaughlin (or McLoughlin) Should anyone have information/pictures about him or some history, addresses, etc ... ? Sometimes a Roll of Honor book of the county was made.

David Stanley Beattie lived at Hawthorne Avenue (19 or 22). His parents names were David & Isabel. He was killed in action August 31, 1918.

Joseph McGrath had a sister Mrs Mary Courchaine, who lived at 23, Excelsior Avenue. He was killed in action August 24, 1918.

Does anyone know if there's a complete list of tombstone inscriptions from St. Joseph's, St. Peter's, St. Mary's, etc.?

There are some piecemeal transcriptions from Loretta Nial's books as well as the O'Connor/Connor and Flynn surnames online but I'm interested in knowing about any possible complete lists for each of the cemeteries.

I've been to St. Peter's as well as St. Joseph's but not St. Mary's. From the Troy map I have it looks like St. Mary's is much larger than the other two.

LDS did a list of the stones in St. John's in Schaghticoke (several connections there to Troy families) and a copy is at the Schaghticoke Town Clerk's Office.

There's a book called Images of America, Troy written by Don Rittner that's 128 pages of just pictures of the City. It includes:

Cityscapes, Landmarks and Views of Troy
Troy's Industries and Merchants
Transportation and Movement
Institutions: Charitable, Educational, Religious and Civic People and Events Recreation and Leisure Disasters

The book also has a map of downtown Troy from 1858 which was before the great fire of 1862 which the book says burned most of the downtown business district. The map also shows Starbucks Works. There's not much street detail on the map however, just images of structures.

Some really great pictures.

The ads are from the "Irish American". The Irish-American was a weekly newspaper published in NYC for the Irish immigrants. It began in 1849 and contained the classified section for people looking for relatives or friends.

I am posting the ones that mention TROY. I first thought I would use our surname list to post but felt Troy was more to the purpose of the list. There are several from Lansingburgh, West Troy and Greenbush that I will post.

To answer Lynn I will put the surname(s) in the Subject line to make it easier. However I suggest you try to read all as they are very interesting.

Mary,

The "Irish naming pattern" is a guide but not a hard and fast rule for all the generations. I would caution against using its literal interpretation because there were people who didn't follow it. It also included the wife's family so the absence of a Nicholas isn't a guarantee it's not the same person or family.

Because of the Irish accent too Nicholas could have been that given name or possibly another. The enumerators would often translate unfamiliar-sounding Irish-pronounced names into something recognisable to them.

In the same 1850 Schaghticoke census there's also a John Phalin as well as John's children children (not with Michael and Nicholas but separate) named James and Patrick.

I extrapolated from 1880, when it was given as 50.

The Michael Phalen sound unlikely, as the names given various Fallon children followed the Michael, John, Matthew, Patrick, Laurence, Malachi, James typical Irish pattern through the generations - no sign of Nicholas.

Ellen Fallon m John Coyne, possibly in Lansingburgh. The others were too young. But several may have been born there. I found a baptism, of Malachi in 1851, but then lost the name of the church and haven't been able to retrieve it.

Mary,

There was a Michael Phalin (Fallon?) age 30 with the Thomas Butler family in the 1850 Schaghticoke census with Nicholas Phalin (Fallon?) age 24 there too.

Now ages in the census can vary greatly so he's a possibility. The Irish surnames listed in that first 1850 census (and sometimes even the later ones) can be mystifying as to what the surnames might really have been.

Several families from Lansingburgh are included in Town of Schaghticoke information because they share a border and part of Schaghticoke later became incorporated into Lansingburgh. Schaghticoke is just north of Lansingburgh (if you do a mapquest search you'll see it). There's information for quite a few of them in Holy Trinity Church registers(formerly St. John's?).

I've copied many of the vital records at the Schaghticoke Town Clerk's Office and I'll check to see if there's any marriage or birth notation for Phalin. Some of those earlier records didn't survive. I don't have the records with me at the moment but I'll check and let you know.

About Anthony and Catherine Maher (aka Mahar) Walsh with Bridget 20 --- what year was that her age?

1850 is the first year the waves of Famine emigrants appear in the area census. It appears some of the enumerators had difficulty understanding their accents. Many of the surnames that year were spelled phonetically so I've seen Fallon spelled as both Phalin and Phalen.

Dumb of me, not to try that, and I've been at this for years. Sometimes we get a blind spot.

What Walshes are you looking for? There were alot in Troy. The surname was also spelled Welch or sometimes Welsh because that's how it was pronounced in Ireland. Mary,

How old was Michael Fallon in the 1850 census?

1850 is the first year the waves of Famine emigrants appear in the area census. It appears some of the enumerators had difficulty understanding their accents. Many of the surnames that year were spelled phonetically so I've seen Fallon spelled as both Phalin and Phalen.

What Walshes are you looking for? There were alot in Troy. The surname was also spelled Welch or sometimes Welsh because that's how it was pronounced in Ireland.

I have often thought that Troy might hold a lot of answers about my family, if I could only find them. The names I am hoping to link with it are Fallon, Walsh, Barrett, Dwyer, Dowd and possibly Maher. The Fallon (Michael, wife Bridget Barrett, children Michael, Ellen, Matthew, Mary, Patrick Laurence [others born after they left this area] , with railroad connections, had at least one child born in Lansingburgh, in 1851, but I cannot trace the family in 1850 census. By 1860, they were in Oneida County and from there on west.

Maybe TIGS will be my 'private eyes.'

Please respond, either to the list or directly to me, with any research resources you have in regard to Troy & surrounding areas, and whether you are willing to do look-ups with them. They can be anything...CD's, books, census, pamphlets, on-line subscriptions to Heritage Quest, etc. etc. We are trying to get an idea of who has what so we can help each other out and learn about different resources.

Thanks,

Dear TIGS Members:

At last night's monthly meeting of the Troy Irish Genealogy Society at Mahr's Tavern in Troy, NY, there was a lengthy discussion about how to proceed with the formal adoption of a TIGS Mission Statement and Constitution or Charter. The attending group agreed that we would post a website containing all the various proposals for the entire membership to read and digest at their leisure. That website can be accessed at:
<http://www.rpi.edu/~keefej/Charters/index.htm> until midnight Sunday September 12th, 2004.

Two local members, Lizette Strait and Rich Shea have volunteered to collect your email suggestions and opinions and to present the membership with a summary of your responses at the next meeting on September 16, 2004. Simply send you email to the TIGS list and use the subject line "Constitution Draft". Hopefully, your participation in this process will lead to the a final draft by October 21st, which we will present to the membership for a vote the week if November 8th, 2004. Please take the time to review these documents and participate in this process!

Thank you,

Hey there ODollard-

first off mister he was a Boland, not a Borland. Isn't Borland German? He WAS a stone mason, but not a Free Mason as he was Catholic (I think). And I no longer speak to the Troy McBolognas. I think you're just sour that CP Boland got credit for building the McCarthy Building on Monument Square and not your Mr Dollard! Boo Hoo. Maybe he started to build it but got the pink slip for forgetting to install a front door or something? The way my Boland's did it was to pay politicians to get state contracts and then buy building product from a company nobody knew they already owned and then jack up their own cost, and pass it on to the tax payers. Then get arrested for it because the slick accountant hid the money they gave to the politicians by padding the payrolls with Cornings and Vanderbuilts listed as day laborers. Ha, Mike and if you are related to O'Connor in Troy maybe your part Boland yourself. CP's sister Julia Boland married a John Hyland, their daughter Margaret Hyland married Vincent O'Connor as in O'Connor Church Goods I believe. Bought many a sacramental greeting card there.

Dear Mike,

Mike You failed to mention your other side of the families the McBologna's and the McHam's. Seriously my cousin down in Daytona who was an O'Connor from Troy told me he thought he still had old man Borland's mason ring. Apparently as they move up in the Masons they can get new rings and I don't have a clue how he got it, other than old man Dollard gave it to him when he was a boy, but he has kept it all these years hoping it would get him out of a speeding ticket. Apparently your suppose to lay your hand with the ring on the door frame and say "I am a traveling man." and you go free. He said it never worked for him and he racked up a ticket everytime he drove from Buffalo to Troy. He got mad and was going to throw it in the Mohawk river but his bursitis got the best of him that day and he put it in a drawer he said way back in 1958. So lets see what he comes up with. Also it was customary back in those days to "share the wealth" among the Irish builders. If one built a road two finished it. If one took on a construction job he did the biggest part of it and then invited his friend to finish it for him so that they both made a little money. It wasn't a partnership, but an Irish Kinship sort of thing to do. It was obviously a custom that did not last long, because by the time the Dollards got all the Catholic Churches to rebuild they shared nothing with nobody. But it was the depression. jd

Before anyone votes for my impeachment from TIGS my McAlonie immigrant ancestor came from Kilraghts Parish, ANTRIM in 1825, not Scotland!! Regardless of the felonious lies that that fork tongued blasphemer Johnny O'Dollard tells about my questionable ancestry and my bad breath!! It was only a few (dozen) miles by boat from Isle of Islay to Antrim. You just wait and see the fire works when he shows his thus far absent self at our meetings!

Hello Everyone:

I think I have most of the bugs worked out of the new website and I have "officially" mounted it at our web address at RootsWeb for your viewing and searching pleasure. I'm still having trouble with the "back" button on the Meeting Minutes page, but everything else seems to be working fine. Many thanks to everyone who contributed material and offered advice, I appreciate all your help. So please take a look and let me know if you have any problems (except for the aforementioned one). Anybody know anything about Keveney HS and or St. Bernards Academy in Cohoes? I am trying to find out where my grandfather went to high school in Cohoes and if they have any old records/ yearbooks/ etc. and where to find them. My Grandfathers brother who was 3 years older went to "St. Bernards Academy" They lived on Main St in Cohoes.

obit said " he was educated at St. Bernard's Academy". I have no idea what grades that covered. It could have been renamed Keveney(sp?) Academy or High School at a later date. There was a Keveney school associated with St. Bernard's Church...

Does anyone else think they are not receiving all their postings to this list? When reading some of the recent ones, it's obvious to me that they are referring to previous postings that I have not seen.

I know I've sung this song before, but I'm wondering again about archiving the list, so that if there are server problems, at least members could go to the Archives to see what they've missed. Jeanne & Ed: Could you put this on the agenda for next week's meeting? Also, would like input from the list members.

Thanks for your comforting words Mike. Flying was bad enough. To stay with you and a little humor, her cat was the worst. It's a feral cat, and the only person the cat will go to is my mother. You should have seen me. I had the cat trapped in an upstairs bedroom and had the furniture all upended or topsy turvy trying to trap her to get her into the kennel. I finally gave up and called the local Animal Control Officer to help. He caught the cat with a snare after about 15 minutes. We got to the Vet for the exam and shots, and then I left her there overnight so I wouldn't have the same problem on Friday when we left to pick up Mom at the hospital and go to the airport. The Vet gave the cat a shot which would keep her lethargic for anywhere from 2 hours to 48 hours - time is unpredictable. When we went through Security, the cat had to be taken from the carrier so the carrier could be x-rayed. The Security staff was great in trying to rush the process so the cat could be returned to the kennel before she escaped. It was quite a sight to see an 83-year old woman ttering on her arthritic knees and carrying a cat in her arms walking thru security. The cat looked as terrified as I did. They stayed at my house Friday night, and on Saturday it took about a minute for her to get the cat into the kennel. The effects of the shot lasted until we got to SLC when the cat again looked alert.

As to genealogy, yes, SLC is the mecca and I love being here. I will be able to return to working on genealogy next month, but in the meantime am in withdrawal although without DTs.

The whole situation is a bit stressful right now, but I think my father and her ancestors have been working with us and helping us as all has been going amazingly smooth.

Off to the shower and Tacoma.

Ruth

HI Ruth!

I am sure I speak for us all when I say we'll be thinking of you and your mother. God I hope you didn't have to drive. Bet you could have made a movie out of that. I will try to be Irish and make light of a tough spot (bear with me I have similar circumstances with some family members) so all you need to do is pay a neighbor to take your Moms OUT to dinner on Thursdays. I am 31 and all of my parents/ aunts and Uncles are 75+ so I am feeling for you. and how could you have genealogy withdrawals in SALT LAKE? Now that is an instance of SO CLOSE but no time. That's genealogy MECCA! But just like my mom would you have got your daughter and your mom on your mind first. God bless you.

Mike

I wish it was just lazy hazy days of summer. I've been involved in bringing my 83-year old mother with Alzheimer's/Alcoholism and her cat from Foxboro, MA to Salt Lake City, UT. It's been a wild and crazy two weeks. But, they are both here and living in an Assisted Living place where there is no alcohol except for a glass of wine at happy hour on Thursday <grin>. The house was sold in three days. Now I just have to go back to do detail work and have a big yard sale in two weeks. Plus, I leave in the morning for Tacoma, WA to help my daughter with a garage sale this week-end. My only problem is that I am having withdrawal from no genealogy work.

Have a good one folks,

Betty,

This school would have been called the Troy Female Seminary during the years you are searching.

I would recommend contacting the school librarian and archivist at Emma Willard School to see if such a list exists. The phone number is 518 833 1836.

It is also possible that the Rensselaer County Historical Society might be able to help you.

Best of luck in your search.

I was recently given two older "documents" regarding St Mary's church in Troy.

"Centenary 1843-1943 St Mary's Church Troy---NY", an 80+ page program for their 100 year celebration, with brief history, some info about the priests, Photos of the church and other buildings, and many Troy advertisements by businesses and individuals.

a large musical program labeled:

Souvenir:
"An Irish Night"
under the auspices of St Mary's Holy Name Society
in St Mary's church
Sunday March 11,1917

"Caed N(M?)ille Failthe"

It is larger than 8x10, 32 pages, much the same as above, a lengthy "Greetings" section, a brief history with pictures of the church and rectory and school and priests, a pre 1917 photo pf the entire Holy Name Society in front of the church, a small section describing the actual evenings musical features, a history of St. Patrick's Day, and some advertisements.

If anyone is interested or has questions about it let me know. I have looked for your more familiar names, none popped out at me. I can bring it to the next meeting if anyone wants.

The monthly meeting of the Troy Irish Genealogy Society was held on 7/15/04 at Mahrs Place in South Troy. Attending the meeting were; Lizette Strait, Bill McGrath, Kristin Ayotte, Frank Ryan, Marialice Mangan, Lynn Grice, Kay Brearton, Donna Vaughn, Mike McAlonie and Wendy, first time attendees were Ruth O'Connor, Rick Shea, Eileen Shea and Carol Waldron.

The attendees were welcomed and the meeting was called to order by the Co-Chairs; Donna Vaughn and Lizette Strait. Donna had prepared and printed for each attendee an agenda for the meeting.

The minutes from the last meeting had been previously approved by the June attendees and were previously posted to the list.

OLD BUSINESS

The Burden Iron Works Transcription Project (Lynn, Bill, Marialice and Kay) - Lynn reported that 18 pages had been transcribed as of the meeting. The books are too large and fragile to be copied therefore the project will be done at the RCHS. The pages are being hand transcribed onto a spreadsheet, these hand written pages are then entered onto a computer spreadsheet at the transcribers home, taken back for proofreading and then forwarded to be compiled and posted. Lynn reports that she will have a better idea of how the project is moving along after roughly 25 pages are completed and will report at the next meeting. For those of the group who work during the day there is the option of going down to RCHS on Saturdays to participate. Bill did have a sample spreadsheet with him and shared it with the group. The records contain; pay date, name, occupation and a remarks column (eg. discharged, work notice, gone to NYC, dead, etc.). The project will be termed a Finding Aide and researchers will be referred to the original document.

St. Peters Church Records (Jeanne Keefe) - tabled until next meeting.

Website Update - We now have word from Jeanne Keefe that she will be able to manage our site, so member projects should be forwarded to her.

Speakers - Tabled until the August meeting

Tours - RCHS (Lynn) Members agreed the goal would be to visit the Library and explore the holdings. Since the transcription project is in process we will delay until further notice. Watervliet Arsenal (Bill) tours are available Sunday through Thursday from 10am till 3pm for the Museum on the grounds. There is no heat or airconditioning so it was recommended that we look towards a Sunday in September.

Chat Room - Pat Connors has told Donna that there is a site (bravenet.com) where arrangements can be made for a Chat by the group. Donna is asking anyone that would like to explore it further to do so and let the list know. The list can pick a topic for discussion outside of business and anyone that wants to participate can do so.

Solicitation of New Members (Donna, Lizette) - Notices were posted on several other lists and that is how Carol Waldron joined us. Hopefully others will inquire and attend a future meeting. Lizette will prepare a notice for the Advertiser (local weekly in the area). She will forward to Carol and Donna to proofread.

"History of Troy Police Benevolent Society" by Don Rittner (Marialice) - Tabled until August (Marialice is not in receipt of the book and has left several messages asking for its whereabouts).

TIGS Constitution and Mission Statement - Much conversation on the list preceding the meeting. At the meeting this writer voiced concern that the potential number of drafts that could be received and need to be reviewed could be extremely time consuming and confusing. After much conversation and a show of hands (8 in favor, 6 abstaining) it was decided to look at the 2 that had been submitted and using one as a guide to form a Constitution. The majority of the group agreed that we will call the finished product a Charter rather than a Constitution. After further discussion the group agreed that the one previously submitted by Pat Connors was the simpler and more to the point. We thank Lizette Strait for the time she took to draw up a template and even she agreed that hers was more cumbersome. We will therefore work from what Pat submitted. A committee consisting of Rich Shea and Lizette Strait will review suggestions by attending members and incorporate the appropriate suggestions into Pats original draft. The completed draft will be presented at a future meeting for comment. That document will be posted to our website for review and comments by the list members.

NEW BUSINESS

The Mission Statement, election of Officers, dues, etc., all items discussed on the list recently will be incorporated into the Constitution.

Our new co-chairs for August and September are Jeanne Keefe and Ed Connolly.

Bill McGrath spoke of one of our goals that being to automate local records and get them on line. It appears we are finally headed in that direction with our Burden Iron Works project.

Marialice and Lynn reminded the group that the list is made up of many different people with different outlooks. Listers should be sensitive and thoughtful with messages posted to the list.

The group agreed to call for a roll call to get a better idea of how many participating members we had of the 54 on the list and also to put together a summary of surnames being researched by the list and the location of the list members to see how widespread we are. Frank Ryan came prepared with statistics.

He has saved every E-mail to the list outside of the first few weeks. He informed us that there were 49 people who had posted and out of them 2 had only 1 posting and 9 had 2-3 postings. The rest were actively participating. Those are good numbers and show we have strong participation and interest out there.

Donna had taken an informal survey of postings concerning the formation of the Constitution, role of list members, election of officers, dues, chat room and location of the meeting. These items have been addressed in these minutes except the location of the meeting. Obviously this is an issue better addressed by those that attend the meeting. The majority of the meeting attendees felt that we had progressed with more formalization of the meeting so that a change in location is not crucial to the group right now. We have access to a private room at Mahrs and will verify that we can reserve the room for future meetings. We will place our food order and ask not to be served until 7:15. That will give us an hour to conduct the meeting and we believe that is ample time.

However if an attending member can arrange for a more formal setting (library, meeting hall, etc.) we are more than willing to entertain a change in location. We are trying to balance the different wishes of the attendees, conduct business that will move us forward and still maintain a friendly "want to be there" attitude.

Genealogy Table - Donna Vaughn shared Surrogate Court Indices that she purchased on E-bay. Donna has posted a description to the list and has offered look-ups. This writer asked Donna to bring the books again to the next meeting as time was short by this time in the evening. Donna also brought her mother's 1946 Bridal Book to share. The book is obviously a treasured memento for her but from a genealogy standpoint a crucial document listing wedding attendants and other vital information concerning her parents wedding. Frank Ryan brought a copy of the "Eastwick Press Newspaper" that contains excerpts from a 1839 diary. Bill McGrath brought a notebook containing his Family Tree Charts.

Bill was also asked to bring them to the next meeting again due to time constraints.

Open Genealogy Forum - Lizette Strait gave a 15 minute presentation. She introduced herself as a "Hobbyist Genealogist" and the ancestor of an immigrant. She had prepared well and had visuals to go with her talk. She described America as a melting pot containing many different make ups. Although her ancestors were not from Troy she notes the similiarities between Worcester, MA to Troy. Worcester, like Troy, was an industrial city containing much cheap labor to keep the factories running. She has worked her genealogy from herself backwards and gets excited everytime she finds a "skeleton". Her talk was laced with seriousness and with humour and was much enjoyed by those that heard it.

Donna and Lizette both thanked the group for giving them the opportunity to co-chair the last few months and wished the incoming co-chairs luck.

Next Meeting - 8/19/04, Mahrs Place in South Troy

We have no volunteer for next months Open Genealogy Forum so anyone planning on attending has an opportunity to shine. Please let Jeanne or Ed know so that you can be put on the agenda.

Yes, I went to see it at the Spectrum Theater when it first opened. I enjoyed it very much also, even the need for tissues at the end. Its a true story, the screenplay was written by Jim Sheridan and his two (now grown) daughters. I think he directed it also, but I'm not sure. Anyway its the story of his and his family's immigration to America "through the back door" as they say, and the tragic loss of their young son.

Just wondering if any of you had seen the recent movie "In America" about a POOR Irish family that moves to Manhattan in present day and tries to eek it out. If so what did you think of it? I just watched it and enjoyed it quite a bit, but had to frequently hand Wendy the kleenex. Just remember it is a contemporary film about life in present day NYC, and I think its worth watching till the end. Curious as to what anyone else thought. I couldn't help but think of the sad inscriptions Bill Mc wrote about his young child ancestor who died in Troy. This one also made me stop and think about how the people felt that I'd seen so many times in the census with young children, and then with one or two less in the next census. Also about how many times all our ancestors went probably through that, but kept going.

I'd recommend it for a rainy day. -Mike
